Chairperson's Message

I am happy and gratified to have this opportunity to address our students, their parents, educationists and all who are committed to the cause and progress of education in our country. Priority-wise, the first task of students is to study the subject well just as the prime responsibility of teachers is to make the subject come alive. However a holistic education requires all stakeholders to allocate time and energy to develop talents and activities which stimulate their intellects and increase their interest and sense of enjoyment thereby ensuring that education here is conducted within a wholesome and happy environment. Our focus is on achieving excellence not only in academics but also in co-curricular activities and life skills. At the same time we cannot leave the social interpretation and application of education wholly to principals, parents, pamphlets or chance. For this teaching and learning must develop both a science and a philosophy. The techniques call for scientific study of methods and ethical study of ends. Students are encouraged to be open-minded, critical and constructive. Opportunities are created for a training of mind, body, hand and eye, of purpose, integrity in work and loyalty to a cause that certainly includes, but goes beyond the means of material satisfaction.

I wish to commend with pride and gratification the diligence and dedication of the Principal, Vice Principal, the HoDs, the teachers and staff who unflinchingly and indefatigably work to fulfil our mission and the ever-present inspiration of Miss Auer's vision. I also take this opportunity to gratefully acknowledge the guidance provided by the C.B.S.E. Officials for achieving the goals of its enterprising and progressive policies and programmes. Last but not least, on behalf of the Family of All Saints', I reiterate our deep appreciation for the encouragement, trust and affection of the parents of our students, and our association with innumerable well-wishers and friends for being a source of infinite strength to us and one of the main reason for the credibility and success of our ventures. JAI HIND.

Principal's Message

The intuitive mind is a sacred gift and the rational mind is a faithful servant. This underrated gift is the trailblazer of the swiftly advancing World. The children of this generation have a sense of utopia which when worked upon becomes the vision of the future. These dreams may seem naïve to many of us but they are the essential raw materials instrumental in shaping character and careers.

The school is at the intersection of the outside world and the child's dreamland or the link between Reality and Utopia. The environment provided to a child – teachers, peers, and lessons determine the quality of the seed which shall sprout and later blossom. The aforementioned environment has a contemporary component too. We are living in the age of information. A 21st century child's education is not bound by books and blackboards. The internet and electronic media play a major role in the modern educational system, establishing a new style of learning and alleviation of doubts.

A popular practice in some schools is Moodle (Modular object-oriented Dynamic learning environment) or the 'Virtual Learning Environment'. Here the teacher and the student both use the same medium - Internet. An introduction can be worked out by giving assignments which compel students to explore the internet. Also, awareness must be spread about our environment, the need for its conservation and the consequences of its ill-treatment. A 'green mind' must be inculcated that looks for sustainable solutions to environmental hazards.

Since internet and learning are not slaves of space and time, proper guidance at all levels becomes a requisite due to which the child's home holds even greater significance and responsibilities. The moral, cultural, social and environmental etiquettes need to be expressed emphatically. Undeniably, parents are the first teachers and their involvement becomes more and more important in nurturing a personality which will be socially commendable.

All Saints' endorses 'To the Highest' as its motto and has established its authenticity. At the same time, Miss Auer's magical words, "It is in giving that we receive" lay the foundation of All Saints'. So we endeavour to achieve excellence with hard work and compassion as our traits. Not only do we aim to be academically ahead but culturally and morally sound. The collaboration of home and school and the conduit to the world of knowledge and innovation will certainly ensure the development of worthy citizens of our country. We should pray and work together to achieve this ideal.

Mission

All School programmes of both learning and enjoyment aim To the Highest, the motto of All Saints which exemplifies its creed. The cadre of student leaders, House and Inter-School Competitions, exhibitions of Project work, Talent Search opportunities through music, dance, elocution, drama, sports, karate, quiz programmes, are all part of the system that provides students, as well as their teachers and parents, with opportunities to become achievers and winners certainly, but also to feel the thrill of sharing more in the fellowship of participation and support than in winning, more in a sense of belonging and loyalty than in attainment, in mutual trust and co-operation that brings with it a feeling of pride and exhilaration for School, inculcates Patriotic sentiments and envisions National goals. It is therefore but natural for the students to be in the forefront in contributing to their countrys need to alleviate sufferings of the underprivileged, and in times of National crises, by sacrificing a material pleasure and earning their donations by doing a labour of love. The mindset that such attitudes and work develop is the hallmark of our ideal of true education.

Vision

Our Vision is to provide all students with diverse learning experiences and ensure individual growth and personal success in an environment of mutual respect and safety through collaborative efforts that include exposure to globalization through cultural activities. Student success will be measured by on-going assessments and observations with support and reinforcement by students, family, staff and community.

To achieve these goals we train our students to acknowledge and work towards making the world a better place by motivating them to discover the sesame of success by exerting their innate social and moral potential and worth through the inculcation of right ideas and right actions. Apart from learning activities and academic progress of which parents of students are informed regularly, assessments of character formation and personality development include propensity and training vis-a-vis alertness, responsiveness, confidence, thoughtfulness, determination, qualities of leadership, concern for the environment, the aged, the handicapped, the destitute and, last but not least, about their sense of humour and bonhomie. It is in this spirit, that while rewarding success in Examinations, what matters more is recognition through awards and trophies, House-wise and individually that are presented, for Social Service, Leadership, Good Citizenship, Courtesy, Courage and Co-operation, Dedication and Determination and for running that Extra Mile.

That our vision is being realised is apparent by the success and kudos our alumni receive in their professional enterprises and achievements in the high position they hold both in our country and abroad. They maintain regular contact with their Alma Mater to which they credit the mantra for their contentment and success as they look back on their years with us with happiness, deep affection and nostalgia.
